Corrections: In the Winter-Summer 1997 issue, there is a mathematical correction to Michael Brady's paper on decision making under uncertainty. On line 25 page 137, the equal sign should be replaced by a plus sign and there should be another end bracket before the square exponent and on line 26, there should be another end bracket before the square exponent again.

The Conference

The History of Economic Thought Society of Australia (HETSA) will hold its 1998 annual conference at the University of Western Sydney Macarthur, from Wednesday July 15th till Friday July 17th.

The conference normally attracts between 40 and 60 participants. The majority of attendees come from Australia, but about a dozen academics from Asia, Europe and North America have attended each previous conference, and a similar number is expected in 1998. A prominent economist will be a keynote speaker at the Conference.

One unusual feature of the conference is that it does not have parallel sessions; this limits to 24 the number of papers which can be presented over the three days. While this has the obvious drawback of a limitation on the quantity of papers, the advantages this format has for the overall coherence of the conference and the quality of discussion outweigh the numerical disadvantage. This is reflected in the quality of papers which are presented, many of which have subsequently been published in HOPE, the JHET, HETSA's own History of Economics Review and Europe's EJHET and JEI. HETSA conferences are renowned for the high quality of discussion and the degree of bonhomie, and for many of the participants the now annual conference has become the highlight of their academic year.

Submission of Papers

Anyone wishing to present a paper should:

- Submit an abstract of no more than 250 words by April 31st. (Authors will be notified of acceptance by May 7th)

- Submit the final paper by June 15th (papers submitted after this date will not be reproduced by the conference organisers)

The address for submissions is:

- Steve Keen, Convenor, 1998 HETSA Conference, Department of Economics and Finance, University of Western Sydney Macarthur, PO Box 555 Campbelltown NSW 2560 Sydney, Australia. Fax: 61 46 26 6683

(Electronic submission--abstracts in the body of the email, papers as email attachments--is strongly recommended).

Papers are not refereed unless the number submitted by the due date exceeds 24; papers submitted after that date will only be considered if less than 24 papers have already been received. Papers should not exceed 7,000 words. The preferred formats for electronic submission are: Microsoft Word; Lotus Word Pro (or Ami Pro) and Corel Wordperfect. Electronic versions should be submitted on 3.5" IBM format disk, or via email.

Papers from students are accepted for a special students' session, and each year HETSA awards the Barry Gordon prize for the best first paper by a postgraduate student.

Papers can be sent as email attachments to

The Conference Venue

Sydney is the world's most cosmopolitan city, with a justified reputation as one of the world's best urban environments. We encourage our international visitors to allow some days for sightseeing and culinary excursions either side of the conference. International visitors with flexible schedules should consider allowing time for vacationing in northern Australia as part of their trip.

The conference venue itself is a very modern and attractive campus on the southwestern rural fringe of Sydney. Though it is some 60 km (about 40 miles) from the city, it is easily accessible both by train and road. The Macarthur railway station is 10 minutes easy walk from the conference venue, and a single ticket from the city to Macarthur costs under $A5. The campus is also just 1km from a major freeway (the M5), and it is the first complex one finds when taking the relevant freeway exit (the University is clearly signposted). The drive from Sydney CBD to UWS Macarthur takes approximately one hour.

Accommodation

Accommodation for the nights of July 15 and 16 will be at Gungahlin, the student residences at the UWSM. The facilities are excellent, far better than the dormitory style of accommodation which is the rule at most Universities. Gungahlin is a complex of modern two storey houses (all built in the last 3 years), each with five bedrooms, two bathrooms, a spacious comfortably furnished lounge and a large kitchen. The beds are comfortable big-size singles, again a cut above what you normally associate with student lodges. Check the conference Home Page for further details. The cost is A$45 per night; places are limited (no more than 50 vacancies are expected) so please contact us soon to reserve a place.

Those who miss out on Gunyidji will be accommodated at motels in the neighbouring city of Campbelltown. These cost between A$60 and A$75 per night. While these are quite comfortable, they are a taxi trip away (approximately 2km) from the University, so please book early to ensure a place at Gunyidji.

We strongly encourage participants from Sydney to resist the temptation to commute the 60km each day, and to instead stay at the lodge. The benefits in terms of interaction with other participants and reduced stress are obvious.

Accommodation for Friday the 17th (for non-Sydney residents) will be at a city hotel, which will cost approximately $100 for the night. This will facilitate attendance at the annual HETSA dinner, which will be held in one of Sydney's best restaurants, within walking distance of Sydney Harbour and the Opera House.

Enquiries

For further information, please contact Steve Keen by email or via the above addresses. The conference organiser can also be contacted on 61 (46) 20-3016 during Australian office hours.

Annual (UK) History of Economic Thought Conference
University of Bath, 7-9 September 1998
Call for Papers

Bath is a particularly suitable venue for this year's conference since 1998 is the bicentenary of Malthus's Essay on Population and he had strong connections with the Bath area and with the parish of Claverton (in which the University of Bath is located).

Though this is not a bicentenary conference it will include a symposium on recent research on Malthus in the history of economic thought. We therefore invite papers in this area. We also invite papers in all other areas of the history of economic thought. Could prospective contributors please submit a title and 500 word abstract to the conference organiser by 15 March 1998.

Conference accommodation is on the university campus and is all en-suite. Anticipated cost in real terms is about the same as for the 1997 Bristol conference.
